Introduction

Karaganda Region – the Heart of the Great Steppe.

The Karaganda Region is a vast and contrasting region, the geographic heart of Kazakhstan, offering tourists a rich combination of unique natural landscapes and a deep historical heritage. A natural gem is the Karkaraly National Park, with its granite cliffs, relict forests, and lakes (Shaitankol and Bassein), ideal for ecotourism and hiking. No less unique is the natural beauty of Lake Balkhash, whose waters are divided into fresh and salt water, making it a popular area for beach recreation, fishing, and water sports.

The region's historical roots stretch back centuries, preserving the ancient Begazy burial mounds of the Dandybai culture and other archeological sites that testify to the rich past of steppe civilizations. At the same time, the city of Karaganda preserves the memory of the tragic 20th century, which can be deeply felt at the KarLag Museum in Dolinka and the Miners' Glory Museum. Modern tourists will find here not only places for reflection and adventure, but also hospitality, complemented by the opportunity to sample the authentic cuisine of the Great Steppe.

ACTIVE TOURISM

Karkaraly District

Karkaraly District is located approximately 220 km east of Karaganda and is one of the most picturesque destinations for active tourism in Central Kazakhstan. The key natural attraction is the Karkaraly National Park, which blends mountain ranges, coniferous forests, and lakes. Notable highlights include Lake Shaitankol—a mysterious high-altitude lake steeped in legend—and Lake Bassein, situated in a natural stone basin, as well as the Kent Mountains with their archaeological sites. The region offers various outdoor activities, wildlife and bird watching, and eco-tours including a visit to the Nature Museum in Karkaraly.

Horseback Riding Turan-EL Qazaq Sport

This is a destination for active leisure and an immersion into the culture of horsemanship, where every guest can find harmony with nature and horses. The center offers horseback trails, equestrian training for beginners, and ethno-tourism activities that reveal the rich traditions of steppe life. It is an excellent choice for family outings, as well as for those seeking new experiences and a genuine connection with the outdoors.

Bektau-Ata Tract

Location:

About 70 km north of the city of Balkhash. Bektau-Ata is a picturesque granite massif that rises abruptly from the flat Kazakh steppe. Its highest point is approximately 1,214 meters above sea level.

What to see:

- 1) Cliffs and canyons – the massif is composed of ancient granite, forming fantastic landscapes. The rocks resemble castles, towers, and mushroom-shaped formations.
- 2) Aulie Cave – a sacred site with a spring, the water from which is believed to have healing properties.
- 3) Rare plants – the flora here differs from the rest of the steppe, with relict and endemic species.

+7 (708) 525-59-20

Kyzylarai Mountains

Location:

Southern part of the Karaganda region, closer to the border with the Ulytau region. The nearest settlements are villages in the Shetsky district. Kyzylarai is a mountain range with the highest point in Central Kazakhstan, Aksoran Peak (1,565 m). This is a little-visited area with wildlife and history.

What to see:

- 1) Aksoran Peak – ideal for those who want to “conquer the summit” within the region.
- 2) Argali – wild mountain sheep live in these areas, which are protected.
- 3) Historical sites – traces of ancient metallurgical production, burial grounds, and burial mounds are found here.

BEACH HOLIDAYS

Lake Balkhash

Balkhash is a unique lake in central Kazakhstan, at the junction of the Zhetysu and Balkhash rivers of the Alakol Lowland, in the Karaganda and Almaty regions. It is one of the largest lakes in the world and has an unusual feature: the western half is freshwater, while the eastern half is saltwater. The lake is surrounded by picturesque mountains and steppes, and is home to rare fish species. The lake is important for the region as a source of water, fisheries, and recreation, and also attracts tourists with its natural beauty.

The distance between Balkhash and Karaganda is approximately 370 km—an optimal route for comfortable travel and tourist trips. The route is ideal for both weekend tours and scheduled trips.

A high-quality highway ensures fast and safe travel between the cities. Smooth road surfaces and convenient infrastructure make the journey easy and pleasant. Gas stations, cafes, rest areas, and restrooms are located along the route, ensuring a high level of comfort along the way. Travelers can stop, rest, and then continue their journey with ease.

ECOTOURISM

Karkaraly National Park

Karkaraly National Park was established in 1998 to preserve the Karkaraly and Kent Mountains and rare species of flora and fauna. The park covers over 112,000 hectares. Rare plants listed in the Red Book, such as the Karkaraly barberry and Kyrgyz birch, grow here, as well as medicinal herbs. The fauna is diverse, including argali, roe deer, foxes, hares, golden eagles, and black storks. Tourists can visit the Basseyin and Shaitankol lakes, explore burial mounds and caves, and enjoy views of mountain ranges and valleys. The park attracts tourists all year round: in summer – hiking and swimming, in autumn – golden forests, in winter – skiing and snowy landscapes, in spring – the blooming of steppe tulips.

Village "Shabanbai bi"

The village of Shabanbai Bi in the Aktogay District has been named one of the country's best villages for tourism by JSC NC Kazakh Tourism. The winners were selected at the national competition "Uzdik Turistik Auyl." Shabanbai Bi is unique for its nature and history. It is located at the foot of the Kyzylarai Mountains. The highest point in Central Kazakhstan, Aksoran Peak at 1,565 meters, is also located here. Near the village is a forest, and on the other side, steppe stretches to the horizon.

«Shunak» Meteorite Crater

One of the most fascinating natural monuments of extraterrestrial origin is the Shunak meteorite crater. The crater was formed approximately 12 million years ago by the impact of a massive meteorite, which at that moment destroyed all life within several thousand kilometers. The crater's diameter is 3,100 meters (two and a half times larger than the famous Arizona impact crater in the United States). The basement ring rim and flattened floor, covered with clay sediments, are clearly visible. The crater is quite deep – approximately 400 meters. It is located in the southern part of the Shetsky District, 35 kilometers southwest of the village of Kiikti.

The Museum-Mine (Training Mine)

The Museum-Mine (Training Mine) is a unique underground museum located at the Karaganda Mountain-Industrial College. It is a realistically recreated training mine at a depth of approximately 15 meters, where visitors can see mining equipment, mine passages, and mannequins of "working" miners. The exhibition is accompanied by audio and text information. To complete the immersive experience into the daily life of miners, visitors receive a commemorative certificate and a traditional "tormozok" (a classic miner's packed lunch consisting of a sausage sandwich, bread, and onions).

The Anet Baba Karaganda Regional Mosque

The Anet Baba Regional Mosque is the largest mosque in the region, located in the southeastern part of Karaganda within the "10th Anniversary of Independence" Ethno Park. This majestic three-story structure features four minarets, each 51 meters high, a central dome, and spacious prayer halls that can accommodate up to 4,000 people.

The mosque is beautifully decorated with stained glass, intricate carvings, and traditional Kazakh ornaments. The surrounding grounds offer a peaceful atmosphere, complemented by a well-kept park and ample parking. Built in 2011, it has become both a spiritual hub and a prominent architectural landmark of the city.

KarLag

The Karaganda Corrective Labor Camp (Karlag)

The Karaganda Corrective Labor Camp (Karlag) was one of the largest branches of the Gulag system, operating from 1931 to 1959 in Central Kazakhstan. Covering a vast territory stretching nearly 300 kilometers, its administrative center was located in the village of Dolinka, near the city of Karaganda. Karlag was established by NKVD decree to provide cheap forced labor for the industrialization and colonization of the steppe lands.

The camp held people of diverse nationalities and professions—scientists, military officers, doctors, engineers, writers, clergy, and their family members. Prisoners were forced into construction, large-scale farming, livestock breeding, coal mining, and state production. Living conditions were extremely harsh: bitter cold, famine, disease, and grueling labor led to countless deaths. Despite this, many prisoners maintained their human dignity, supporting one another and even creating clandestine schools, theater groups, and scientific laboratories.

Today, the former administrative headquarters in Dolinka houses a museum dedicated to the memory of the victims of political repression. It preserves the stories of the prisoners and serves as a somber reminder of a tragic chapter in Kazakhstan's history. Karlag remains a symbol of suffering, courage, and the unbreakable spirit of those who endured the era of Stalinist repressions.
